There is no evidence that any other cases exist. From the above, it appears that the following is a reasonable theory of the situation in regard to the cases. The cases may be divided into two groups, one consisting of the cases which are in the process of being investigated, and the other consisting of the cases which are not. The cases which are in the process of being investigated are the cases which are in the process of being investigated, and the cases which are not are the cases which are not in the process of being investigated.
