WHEREAS the representatives of the Great Powers are witnesses of the barbarous practices of the Armenians they are expected to take measures for the prevention of the atrocities and for the punishment of the perpetrators.

WHEREAS the representatives of the Great Powers are witnesses of the barbarous practices of the Armenians they are expected to take measures for the prevention of the atrocities and for the punishment of the perpetrators.

Since the representatives of the Great Powers are witnesses of the barbarous practices of the Armenians they are expected to take measures for the prevention of the atrocities and for the punishment of the perpetrators.

Whereas the Great Powers have, since the Armistice, taken the destinies of the small nations in hand and in this connection they supervise the affairs of the nations of the Caucasus, the Persian Government consider them responsible for the reparation of the unforgettable atrocities committed on the Moslems of the Caucasus,
