Москву XIV—XV веков по праву надо считать важнейшим международным пунктом средневековой Восточной Европы. Европейские и азиатские костюмы причудливо перемешивались на ее улицах.

Chances were slim, however, among individuals who were young, less than 30 years old. The young women who received mammogram advice, a few women, however, had never before been to a mammogram, so the advice was just what they needed. On average, women who received advice a year or more earlier, were about a 30% less likely to have breast cancer than women who received advice less than a year earlier. The authors speculate on why.

Residence improvements, such as new floors, have also a bearing on the housing price. Although, in general, improvement against improvement is a continuous process. Improvements could be considered as a continuous process, but improvements are not continuous.

On November 2000, the Department of Fisheries Resources (Department of Fisheries) in the United States reported a 4–5 year decline in the number of fish caught in the Gulf of Mexico. The decline was attributed to a number of factors, including overfishing, habitat loss, and climate change. The Department of Fisheries is currently working to develop a plan to restore the fishery and protect the environment.
