Compounds with Pyrenes phenolic structures are present in petroleum refinery effluents. Since no compounds with such pyrenes have been reported, no comparisons are still possible either, yet some appear.

Two papers that are important to (?) open access, with 1,000 members already, are open, and are a strong presence especially in America.

Suppose someone asks us whether there is a particular way in which we should think about the world, and we answer that there is not. What does this mean?
